2019 - End of the year review

- You have done some great work this year for Professional Services; app designs for client demos – HSBC for example; website concept design; reporting dashboard design. For this and the quality of work you deliver you not only meet expectations, but most times exceeded expectations
- You are always available and approachable whenever I call on you
- You always show willingness to contribute and help
- You collaborate well with colleagues on projects
- You communicate well and verbalise your opinions easily in a respectful way
- You always show respect for those around you
- You are also well respected within the team and the business
- I can trust you to take on designated tasks and I know with full confidence that the job will be done right
- You are a great asset to the team, you bring a lot to the table, expertise, quality of work, experience, patience, know-how
- I believe that you have had a very good 2019 and I look forward to working with you further in 2020 Pieter

Rob Evans - Director of Professional Services, EMEA at Aventri

Feedback from a client

The new Aventri Mobile App platform provides clients a very straight forward way to build, configure and theme their mobile event app. I worked as the lead User Interface and User Experience designer on this project.

"We expressed interests in the BETA programme relating to the Aventri Mobile App because we could see material benefit in gaining access to the upgraded features that were being introduced, so much so that upon seeing them live we decided to fully roll them out immediately.

Overall the improvements made make it much easier for our organisation to retain a common look and feel to our apps with the new themes feature whilst also enabling our Event Teams to create bespoke branding for specific events that have dedicated branding, this has been a great feature to allow us to control a common look and feel for all delegates engaging with the app.

The navigation around the platform is also much easier, meaning less clicks for co-workers engaging with the system regularly. This will help aid training for new co-workers and with the deployment of the new features across our organisation.

Overall we are highly engaged from Aventri on new features and improvements and get ample opportunities to feedback ideas and suggestions for improvement via our Account Manager who we have an awesome relationship with and the Customer Innovation Exchange programme."
